

Research Training in Otolaryngology – NIH Fellowship Program Supervision and Duty Hour Policy

Policy on Supervision/Duty Hours

Annually research fellows are assigned to a research laboratory and supervised by the faculty member that provides oversight to each lab. First year research fellows will be assigned one night of call in March to cover otolaryngology residents during the Otolaryngology Training Examination. There are no other clinical assignments during the two-year fellowship.

The fellows' hours will not exceed 40-50 hours per week hence reporting of work hours is not necessary.

Moonlighting is not permitted.
